EXHIBITION TO ENHANCE RELIABILITY OF GENETIC TESTS

PTI STORY

Lahore: A 10-year-old boy who was known as ‘Kabir Singh Senger’, is the latest in a series of murder cases that have created panic in the region. The boy was admitted to the hospital on Saturday after being found with multiple stab wounds. The police are yet to identify the murder weapon.

While one close to the Senger family said that the boy had been beaten to death in a drug-related incident, another claimed that state police officers confirmed that the boy had been attacked by unknown people who were drinking in the area. The family has accused the police of not doing enough to understand the motive behind the murder.

New Delhi: A government-sponsored initiative to sequence the whole genomes of Indians will get underway within a month, with a 10-year-old boy who was killed in a stabbing attack.

Indian scientists stir TB breakthrough hope

New Delhi: Indian scientists have discovered how tuberculosis bacteria trick the immune system, presenting a new clue to the development of vaccines to combat the disease. The findings could be a big step toward creating a current standard treatment for TB.

Their findings challenge a long-held belief that the bacteria infect and spread by inducing an exuberant immune response in the body, triggering inflammation and damaging the lungs and other tissues.

Researchers have known for years that the bacteria can harbor certain proteins that can infect cells in the body and help them survive. They also secrete in the lungs, where the immune system typically attacks and kills them.

"We've found that the TB bacteria can hijack the immune system's own defenses," said lead scientist Prasenjit Banerjee, a research scholar at JNC, New Delhi. "They use our immune system's own mechanisms to stay alive and keep spreading inside the lung tissue, which can lead to infections and deaths." Banerjee added that it is important to understand how the bacteria accomplish this to better combat the disease.

TB is the leading cause of infectious disease deaths worldwide, with 10 million people falling ill and 1.5 million dying each year. The discovery of new modes of TB transmission and persistence could lead to the development of new vaccines and treatments.

The study, published in the journal Nature, identified several proteins that the bacteria use to evade the immune system. These proteins allow the bacteria to hide within the body and avoid being detected by the immune system.

"Our findings suggest that the TB bacteria have evolved to exploit the human immune system's own defenses to survive and spread," Banerjee said. "This could be a major breakthrough in our understanding of the disease and the development of new treatments."...

CU facility hurdle to more tech seats

SUBHANKAR CHOWDHURY
College Street: Calcutta University has failed to increase the number of BTech seats because of infrastructure inadequacies. The university had received funds to develop infrastructure, though.

Last week, the joint entrance examination board issued an order for the 2020-21 exams. On the JEE site, the university’s seat count remains unchanged at 233. An university official confirmed that the number had not changed despite the university adopting a resolution last year at an admission committee meeting to raise the count to 306.

The university is still developing a workshop to meet minimum requirements to admit more students. BTech students are taught engineering mechanics and engineering drawing at a workshop on the university’s Ballygunge science college campus in the second semester.

The workshop was set up in 2000 for jute and fibre technology BTech students, which was the only four-year course then. Now, all are four-year courses and students take turns to use the workshop.

Vice-chancellor Sonali Chakravarti Banerjee had sanctioned Rs 2 crore in 2017 when she was the pro-VC for a workshop at Salt Lake. She became VC in July 2017.

In May 2020, she had said that the workshop would be ready in 10 years under the Rashtriya Uchchatar Shiksha Abhiyan. However, the university’s facility hurdle to new tech seats remains unresolved.
