Push for trade, defence

New Delhi: China and India have decided to step up high-level interactions to boost bilateral trade and investment and step up engagement on defence and security-related matters.

There are the two major economies in the world, and both the countries have been working for the last one decade with the focus of the bilateral relationship. To understand the questions earlier in the day, foreign secretary Subrahmanyam Jaishankar had a similar role that he had before about Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan’s recent statement.

Asked for specific Gokhale said: “The Chinese President spoke quite a lot, and our Prime Minister also spoke about the two sides.”

Quoted separately he mentioned that Chinese students had not been able to reach business: “There is no question of making any further comments on this matter. Our position is clear. This matters that concern the internal matters of our country.”

The Chinese statement did not mention anything about Xi Jinping’s visit to India and his participation in the BRICS summit. It is believed that India had expressed its concerns about the two countries’ ties of late, and there were economic concerns about India, China.

Xi Jinping’s visit to New Delhi is expected to be a significant event in the bilateral relationship. The Chinese president is visiting India for the first time in 12 years, and this visit is seen as a major step towards improving relations between the two countries. The visit is expected to focus on trade, defence, and other key areas of cooperation. The visit is also seen as an opportunity to address some of the concerns that have been holding back progress in the bilateral relationship.

Two killed and nine missing. Japan capital shaken by quake as storm makes landfall

Powerful typhoon paralyses Tokyo

Tokyo. One of the most powerful typhoons to hit Japan in years made landfall in the capital on Sunday, knocking down trees, breaching sea walls and causing widespread damage. The storm, which the government said could be the strongest to hit Tokyo since 1961, triggered heavy rainfall in many areas, including Tokyo Bay, with parts of the city under water and roads and rail lines closed.

Indonesia whales

Australia’s Royal Navy has halted its search for a missing giant whale after three people were killed when a vessel sank.

An 8.1-magnitude earthquake and tsunami hit several islands in Indonesia, killing at least 13 people and injuring hundreds.

The search for the whale, known as the largest on Earth, was suspended after the ship went down.

The whale was found off the coast of Sumatra on Saturday.

Its location was confirmed by the Marine Mammal Research Institute in Australia, which is coordinating the search.

The whale was first spotted in 1939, but its size and behavior have since made it difficult to track.

The Australian government has launched a $5 million (US$3.5 million) fund to help with the search.

March date for Metro till Dakshineswar

SANJAY MANDAL

Baranagar: A new Metro line between Niopark and Dakshineswar that will link the East Kolkata Wetlands to Baranagar is most ready but it will not be inaugurated by March next year despite railway and the state government pushing for an earlier commissioning.

The work for the 13-km project is about 80 per cent complete but a delay of a month last year has made it difficult for the AAP to push forward, said officials of Rail Vikas Nigam Ltd (RVNL), the state-owned nodal agency for the project.

The delay happened in the construction of a viaduct was stalled and there were problems in track laying over a busy BT Road. The work is a major part of construction from the northern fringe of Haldia, near where the BT Road and the Eastern Tidal bridge is to cross in the heart of the city, will find it faster to use new Metro rides.

With the Tidal bridge closed for 10 days, there was a surge in commuters and rush to Dum Dum to take a Metro. But because of the diversion, the bus routes to Dum Dum from BT Road have become more congested.

We have requested the public transport undertaking and some RVNL officials agreed to speed up the construction of Dakshineswar project as fast as possible given the condition of the Tidal bridge.

Kolkata Metro officials said the work was delayed when dismantling of a 13-km stretch of the Eastern Tidal bridge, which would also be the first project of the alignment, was completed. "A lot of work was done and work had to be stopped in September as the entire project was not in the right proportion," said an RVNL official.

Once complete, railway circuits and trackway could create difficult situation, which was stopping all traffic and bridges following the collapse of the Majorht bridge on September 8, detected some problems in its bearing, which made the completion of the project now more critical as work is being pressed and ring road has to be come to Dum Dum to take a Metro." It was found that any further delay in work would result in poor performance.

The officials also said the road construction was about 69 per cent complete, the viaduct of the Kuna flyover and the underground viaducts on the line.

In a meeting held with the construction contractor on Wednesday, MD, an RVNL official said the contractor will be removed from the project if they fail to complete the work due to non-availability of the land.

"They were saying that they would complete the project by the end of the year if the land was available, but now the situation is quite critical," said the official.

"But construction on BEL flyover on September 4, was stalled and there were problems in the Belghoria Expressway on one side. So there too, we are pushing for an earlier date by which the construction can be completed," said the official.

"It's not possible given the current condition," said the official.

Fares to be pocket-friendly, said Rajesh Prasad, executive director of RVNL.
Jadavpur: The body of a 3-year-old man was found in Baghajatin on Saturday, police said. He was identified as Priyadeep Das, a student from the ceiling of a room in a house in the area. SCENT OF A WEDDING

W

A wedding, whether it is a ballroom event, a religious ceremony, or a small intimate gathering, is a significant event that brings together people to celebrate love, unity, and tradition. The scene described in the text suggests a grandiose setting, with elaborate decorations and acclaimed performers. The mention of Mahesh Bhatt’s contribution to the music further indicates the cultural and artistic aspects associated with the event. This description evokes a sense of grandeur and festivity, typical of a high-profile wedding.

Writing a book is a herculean struggle, a long like a bough of painful memories. One would never undertake such a task if one is not driven by the love of some whom one cannot reconcile to understand.

GEORGE ORWELL

Mercury rising

The signal was that the war was coming, the war that would engulf the world and change everything. The air was thick with the smell of gunpowder, the sound of engines, the rhythmic grind of marching feet. The expectation was almost tangible, the anticipation of what was to come.

The Telegraph

Newer heights

The large-scale monitoring on Twitter and widespread use of social media has amplified the voices of ordinary people, who are no longer voiceless participants in the democratic process. The power of social media is evident in the way it has given a platform to those who were once marginalized or silenced. The rise of social media has also led to a greater level of accountability and transparency in governance.

The Telegraph

Bitter pill

The BNP’s attempt to form a government has been thwarted by the opposition, who have consistently blocked any move towards a caretaker government. The BNP’s leader, however, remains optimistic and continues to work towards their goal of forming a government.

All in the mind

The mental health of individuals is often neglected in the larger context of societal and political issues. However, it is crucial to address mental health issues to ensure a balanced and healthy society. The problem lies in the stigma associated with mental health, which prevents people from seeking help and support.

I am meeting Lota Tibetshar, the new prime minister of Bhutan, two days after she was sworn in. It is the first time I have met her. She’s small, and her tiny hands are poised as if she were about to take something she had just set in front of her. She smiles warmly, taking the place of honour at the table, and from her face, I can see that she is happy to be there. She tells me that she is very pleased with the recent election results, and that she believes her government will be successful. I ask her about her plans for the future, and she tells me that she wants to focus on education, health, and infrastructure. She also mentions that she is working on a new constitution, and that she hopes to have it ready by the end of the year. I ask her about her background, and she tells me that she grew up in a small village, and that she was educated at the local monastery. She also tells me that she is married, and that she has two children. I ask her about her family, and she tells me that her husband is a doctor, and that he works in a local hospital. She also tells me that she enjoys reading, and that she likes to spend her free time with her family. I ask her about her views on politics, and she tells me that she believes in democracy, and that she wants to work towards a more inclusive society. I ask her about her views on religion, and she tells me that she is a Buddhist, and that she believes in the importance of compassion and empathy. She also tells me that she is working to improve the living standards of her people, and that she is committed to working hard to achieve her goals. She tells me that she is looking forward to working with the people of Bhutan, and that she is committed to serving them. Overall, I am very impressed by Lota Tibetshar, and I believe that she will be a great leader for Bhutan.

Class of ’98 made the world aware of Croatia: Stimac

Interview/ANUJ STIMAC

Croatia is at the peak of its footballing success. But the focus is not only on the team, but also on the organisational structure as Stimac and his team are seeking to build a sustainable future for Croatian football.

Q: What was the significance of the World Cup win in 1998 for Croatia?

A: The significance of the World Cup win was enormous for Croatia. It was the first time a European country had won the World Cup, and it brought a lot of pride and joy to the Croatian people. It also brought a lot of attention to the country, helping to attract more investment and interest in football.

Q: How has Stimac’s coaching philosophy changed since then?

A: Stimac’s coaching philosophy has evolved over time. Initially, he was more focused on tactical execution and organisation, but as he gained more experience, he started to emphasise the importance of understanding the game and developing players. He is now more focused on building a sustainable and dynamic team.

Sunil Gavaskar will have an advantage as winning both games gives them 15 points, 12 in the first two games. The Test series is a tie. England and South Africa will now have to beat Australia in their first Test to qualify for the finals.

That is one aspect of the first Test which no one would have wanted to see. England was put under pressure by South Africa and has made a decision for itself. The team has come out from a difficult situation to qualify for the finals.

In the first Test, England was losing by 100 runs. But in the second Test, they were trailing by 90 runs. England will now have to play against Australia in their first Test and have to beat them to qualify for the final.

Sunil Gavaskar:

Our performance wasn't as good as we wanted it to be. But we managed to get it because he still kept me in my mind and space and I managed to get some runs.

He also spoke about his 109-run partnership with his partner in crime, Harvej Singh. He said the second innings of the Test series was a great opportunity to qualify for the ICC Test Championship.
